Postgraduate Diploma in End-of-Life Care

September 2017 admission

The First Postgraduate Diploma course on end-of-life care in Hong Kong

This one year part-time programme provides knowledge base on the theories, principles and approach needed for those involved in end of life care in different specialties and health care settings. The course will provide a broad coverage of wide ranging aspects, from the global issues and concerns at end of life, to the care for physical, psychological, social and spiritual needs of dying patients and the challenging clinical and ethical dilemma; from basic principles of communication, counseling with terminally ill patients, to bereavement support and care for carers. The programme consists of lectures, case studies and written examinations.

Admission requirements: Bachelors degree in health or social sciences from a recognised university, with honours not lower than second class, or course equivalent to honours degree. Fulfilled “English Language Proficiency Requirement” as stipulated by the Graduate School before being considered for admission.

Course duration and fees: One year part time. HK$57,500* for the academic year 2017-18.
